MEN AND WOMEN ABUSE EACH OTHER

EQUALLY

Huge systematic review of 62 different studies has come to the conclusion that Female-perpetrated IPV is a common occurrence among adolescents, college students, and adults^[1] in heterosexual relationships. [1]

A 2008 study of 98 men interviewed on the US National Crime Victimization Survey found that half of the men (46%) who reported some form of sexual victimization were victimized by women. [3]

BUT WHY WE HAVE ALMOST NO SHELTERS FOR MEN?

Another meta-analysis of close to 100 studies, found that in heterosexual intimate relationships, women are even slightly more likely to use physical violence against a partner and to use violence more frequently than men. [2]

CDC USA 2010 and 2012 studies both found out that 40.5% of all heterosexual rapists are women. [4]
